Administrator's Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James A. Milley, deceased, will sell, at private sale, on or after the 4th day of February, 1886, to the highest and best bidder for cash, an undivided one half interest in the mining claim known as the "White Tail Deer" mine, situated in the Warren mining district, Cochise county, Arizona.
By order of the Probate court, made on the 4th day of January, 1886. ALEX. WIERMAN, Administrator.

The soil and climate of Tombstone are well adapted to the culture of many kinds of fruits and flowers. Mr. William Branch, whose nursery is on Fulton street, near Second, has just received a choice assortment, well suited to the neighborhood of Tombstone. A full stock of fruit trees, grape vines, and all kinds of small fruit constantly on hand.

An Uninteresting Calculation.

There is no end to the fanciful con-ceits which may be framed in regard to large sums of money. The recent death of W. H. Vanderbilt has enabled the curious architects of such fancies to indulge in a variety of surprising and grotesque illustrations, which they have produced for the purpose of giving to the mind some adequate notion of a sum so vast as $200,000,000 in money.
The old calculation, as to how long it would take a cannon-ball, speeding through space at the rate of 6,000 feet a second, to reach the sun and distant stars, are recalled by these unique statements in regard to the height that Vanderbilt's pile of money would reach, or the breadth of ground that it would cover, if it should be all heaped up or spread out at once. It is to be remarked that all the calculations of this character relate to what Vanderbilt left behind, not to what he took with him.

A "lightning calculator," in the New York Times, produces the following statements for our edification:

If this sum of $200,000,000 were in standard silver dollars it would present such features as this:

Put lengthwise, dollar after dollar, it would stretch a distance of 4,672 miles, making a silver streak from New York across the ocean to Liverpool.

Piled up, dollar on dollar, it would reach a height of 855 miles.

Laid flat on the ground, the dollars would cover a space of nearly 60 acres.
The weight of this mass of silver would be 7,160 tons.

To transport it would require 358 cars, carrying twenty tons each (this is the capacity of the strongest freight cars) and making a train just about two and a half miles long.

On ordinary grades it would require twelve locomotives to haul this train.
On roads of steep grades and sharp curves, fifteen or twenty locomotives would be needed.

In $1 bills this $200,000,000 fortune would assume such shapes as this:

The bills stretched lengthwise would extend 23,674 miles, or nearly the circumference of the earth at the equator.

Piled up one on another, close as leaves in a new book, they would reach a height of twelve miles.

Spread out on the ground they would cover 746 acres, or nearly the whole surface of Central Park, including ponds and reservoirs.

A safe deposit vault to contain these bills would require to be 23 feet long, 22 feet wide and 20 feet high.

If we admit all this without hesitation or incredulity, we may then ask what of it? Vanderbilt's wealth appears of colossal proportions. Vanderbilt himself is nothing.

Great Caesar dead and turned to clay, Might stop a hole to keep the wind away.

While the mathematician of the New York Times was working out his problems as to Vanderbilt's money, the heirs of Vanderbilt aided by the police were engaged in the ghastly task of hiring a guard to watch his remains in order to prevent them from being stolen from the vault in which they were inclosed, like those of Stewart, the other hundred millionaire who died a few years ago.

Metal-Cutting Machinery.

An account is given of the introduction into England, by Miss D. Long of her metal-cutting machinery, which has for some time been in successful use in France. She has now, it appears, perfected some ingenious machinery, worked by steam-power, which cuts with the utmost precision the hardest and softest metals in any design, so that by it can be produced a gold face-pin or a steel castle-portentils from the solid metal, without any molding or filing.
This unique industry is divided into four general branches. The first is the production of gates, doors, balcony-fronts, and other architectural metal-work, without casting—plates of brass a foot thick being thus cut into lattice-work at a single operation; a second branch is the making of lattice-metal work filled in with glass, to supersede the ordinary ladder frames for church and other ornamental windows; the third branch comprises the inlaying of plush and ebony jewel-cases, cabinets, etc., with red and yellow copper, steel, and other metals; and a fourth for the working of picture-frames, baskets, crests, etc., out of the solid metal fully finished.

The Tremendous Task of Dr. Lescage.

Whatever they may say, all that they are doing at Panama looks to the construction of a canal that must have 124 feet of lockage, and will then cost $20,000,000, in addition to the $190-000,000 expended in on stock or owned in lands. About $20,000,000 has gone to the founders and stockholders; about as much more for the purchase of the Panama railroad, and 10 per cent. in advertising and extra fees to bankers; and as much more to contractors as a bonus. I heard it from an engineer conversant with the work, that every cubic meter of hard ground excavated costs $2.50, which is five times what it should cost even there. But the difficulty, even for a lock canal, is to get rid of the excavated material. An enormous amount of excavation will be required to get proper slopes in the Cleveland cut. It is almost wholly in earth, and the summit level of the railroad is a mere "hog's back"—that is to say, it has very steep grades on both sides. The cut was made only twenty-five feet deep, because of the tendency of the earth to slide. In fact a train was caught in this gap by a slide, and it required days to dig it out. The earth had to be carried off in buckets and it was like pushing. If the canal has a lockage of 126 feet then the deep cut will be at least 250 feet. So you see what a cut in width it must be and what the land-slides will be in after years.
